

SUNRISE COVE LODGE

A simple guide for a well-planned lake stay.

Keep this guide handy before your trip and while you are away. It covers the essentials without putting private arrival details in a document that can be forwarded.

Your private arrival message, sent after your stay is fully arranged, will include the exact address, parking notes, entry details and any final stay-specific instructions.

Clear Lake, California

Slow lake mornings. Easy evenings. Room to gather.

Before you go

A calm arrival starts with the basics.

- Save the confirmation thread. Your request confirmation and decision are kept together so it is easy to find. Once a stay is approved, look for the private arrival message closer to check-in.
- Check the forecast. Conditions at the lake change with season and weather. Pack layers, sun protection, comfortable shoreline shoes and anything you need for time on or near the water.
- Confirm the final group plan. Sleeping arrangements, any pet approval and specialty equipment should be confirmed with R&R; before the stay.

The lodge, room by room

The house is meant to feel lived-in, comfortable and connected to the lake.

Kitchen and dining

Plan shared meals and easy coffee mornings. Bring any special ingredients or tools you rely on; the current kitchen inventory should be confirmed before a stay if it matters to your plans.

Living and flexible work space

A relaxed indoor spot for conversation, a record, a book or a little remote work. Treat the house gently and keep food and drinks where they belong.

Rest, refresh, repeat

Bedrooms and baths

Bring what helps you sleep comfortably. Before booking, confirm the final sleeping layout for your group and any needs such as a crib, accessibility considerations or pet accommodations.

A simple house courtesy

Please keep bathrooms tidy, use only the supplies intended for guest use, and let R&R; know promptly if something needs attention. Small reports early help protect a great stay for everyone.

For every room: Treat windows, furnishings and decor with care. Keep exterior doors and windows secured when you are away or turning in for the night.

Deck, shoreline and lake time

The outdoors are part of the stay

Enjoy the deck, shoreline views and the pace of the lake. Keep a close eye on children near water, use a properly fitted personal flotation device for water activities, and never assume conditions are the same from one day to the next.

Bass Alley

Ask R&R; about the local fishing conversation around Bass Alley. It is a seasonal local tip rather than a promise of access, conditions or a catch. Follow all current California fishing rules and carry the right license.

One lake-conditions note

Clear Lake is a real, working natural lake. Most days are simply for taking in the view, but conditions can vary with weather, wind, water level and season.

Before any water activity: check the local forecast and current public notices, look at conditions when you arrive, and make the choice that feels right for your group that day. Wind, temperature and shoreline conditions can change quickly.

This is practical trip-planning guidance, not a warning that a problem is expected. Keep an off-water plan in your pocket too: wineries, a scenic drive, local dining, a book on the deck, or a visit to nearby trails and parks.

Around Clear Lake

For essentials, travelers commonly look toward Riviera, Kelseyville, Clearlake and Lakeport depending on their route. Your private arrival email can point you to the most convenient current grocery and fuel options for your approach.

A good local rhythm

Coffee and a grocery stop on the way in, an unhurried lake morning, then a winery, trail, meal or sunset at your own pace. Verify hours, reservations and seasonal access before heading out.

House and neighborhood courtesy

The best stays feel easy because everyone takes care of the setting.

Be a good neighbor. Keep sound considerate, use only approved parking, and do not block neighboring spaces or access. Your arrival message will include the specific parking courtesy for your stay.

Be lake-smart. Supervise children, respect weather and water conditions, and use approved equipment only as instructed.

Be in touch early. If anything is unclear or needs attention, reply in your R&R; confirmation conversation rather than trying to solve it alone.

Final rules come first. Any approved pet terms, capacity, quiet hours, equipment limits and stay-specific rules in your confirmation or private arrival message govern the stay.

Departure made easy

A friendly departure helps the next arrival feel just as welcoming.

Before you leave

- Take all personal belongings and food with you.
- Place trash and recycling where your private guide directs.
- Leave used beds unmade unless your stay-specific guide says otherwise.
- Wash or gather dishes as directed; do not leave food out.
- Turn off lights, water and appliances you used.
- Close and secure doors and windows.
- Send a quick note if there was damage, a maintenance issue or anything the next guests should know.

After the stay

You will receive a brief courtesy note on departure day. Reply in the same email conversation if you have feedback, found something after you left, or want to plan another visit.
